RAILROAD RUMBLINGS.

Great Preparations for the Fair on the Pennsylvania Road.

People who pay no attention to such matters can form no idea of the preparations made by the Pennsylvania Railroad company to meet the demands for transportation from every point in the east and the north, of the middle and eastern states, to Chicago when the Columbus World's Fair, which opened May 1. This will need an increase of trains so great in number as to demand large additional motive power, and a vast increase of rolling stock, all of which have been prepared and will be ready as soon as the flood tide of travel from the east and the north begins to roll toward Chicago. Track room has been secured to enable the company to run many trains both ways on schedules that will admit of more sections than were run on any road on the continent without a possibility of a collision, or run into the rear of any train. The entire road from New York to Chicago has been doubled tracked, in some places there are four tracks, while the entire Middle division of the Pennsylvania road proper has four tracks. Such a condition of a railroad may be regarded as the most famous exhibition that will be made in connection with the Columbus World's Fair, and when the exhibition opens the stupendousness of the display will only be seen in the grandeur of its operations and the magnificence of its results. There will be no freights except of material absolutely needed for immediate use allowed to interfere with this coming passenger traffic, because it is the purpose of the company during the continuance of the rush to the fair in the summer of 1893 not to allow any condition to arise that can possibly add danger to the safety of human life in its charge. It is a subject and a purpose which the public can contemplate with profit, as showing what a great railroad company proposes to accomplish in the interest of the people of the United States, and those who will visit the country from abroad this year.

The schedule makers on all railroads are of a class of mathematicians of whom little is known by the public at large, and less by the people who travel, the latter of whom never consider that they are riding in the jaws of death, during which the loss of a few minutes may close those ponderous openings and engulf them where they will remain throughout eternity. It is the schedule maker who fixes the time with which all trains are run, a train runner in a depot holding them and with the aid of the telegrapher at that point, assisted by operators at all other points, doing the thinking in the direction of these mighty operations. A general schedule is in effect during all of a season, which are only interfered with in slight details as emergencies by special service demands it, when the maker of schedules must do the ciphering to get an additional train in, as a duplication of the service is required. Slight changes, holding a train on a siding or giving it a right to the road, are directed by the train runners, their orders being transmitted by telegraph, in which work operators are required to be accurate and prompt. There are no chances in doing this job. It is all done by figuring and in no other ciphering made necessary in the affairs of business are figures required to be more truthful than in these matters. It is where figures are not only supposed to be incapable of lying but where they are absolutely required not to lie because of their truthfulness is involved the safety of human life. This will be a year of extraordinary tests for schedule makers for train dispatchers and runners, and for telegraphic operators. May they all come up to a full measure of efficiency in performing their several labors.

The Pennsylvania Railroad company has notified their agents to withdraw from sale winter excursion tickets to a number of points in Florida, Georgia and North Carolina at the close of business April 30, but at the same time allowing the sale of excursion tickets to summer resorts in different directions.

AHEAD AGAIN!

We have mounted another rung on the ladder of popularity. It is the Standard Grand time, a drop-head, half-cabinet at a reasonable price. The head rises automatically to its place when the leaf is laid back. With a single movement the head disappears, the cabinet closes, and you have an elegant ornamental piece of furniture. Drop in and look at it. And while we are talking of cabinet work we might mention the different kinds of wood the Standard is made up in—Antique Oak, XVI Century Oak, Walnut, Hungarian Oak, Mahogany and Sycamore.

No. 4 NORTH MAIN STREET,

Grand Display of FINE DRESS GOODS

DRESS GOODS is such a bewildering topic that we will not attempt a full description, but give a partial outline, which you can fill in by a personal inspection. There are the plain and changeable diagonals; plain, plaid striped and invisible plaid serges; fancy mixtures in all sorts of odd weaves, dots, threads cross-threads, hair-lines, lines here and there many at a glance appearing alike, but upon examination are found entirely different. Our assortment of silks is complete—china silks, china surah, plain surah, bengaline, plain, figured and changeable silks, in all the new shot effects. Full line of fancy braids to match any color of dress goods.

....In Wraps We find the most stylish and the prevailing mode to be the Cape, in some of its variations, single, double or triple capes. Some are plain, others very highly decorated, with fancy indecent braid, butterfly colors, or some full arrangement at the neck, so much approved this season by the feminine fancy. To some, coats only are the correct garment. To those we would say coats are equally fashionable and stylish, many of these having capes also attached—sometimes one, two or three, as the taste or inclination of the wearer may desire.

We have this season, for the first time, added a Millinery Department, and have spared neither trouble nor expense to make it a success. The result exceeds our most sanguine expectations. This department will be under the same management and conducted on the same principles that have always characterized our entire business. We shall keep everything in trimmed and untrimmed hats, novelties of every description. Having secured a trimmer noted for her artistic and skillful work, we are enabled to suit all tastes. We invite a careful inspection of our entire store. All welcome.
